

Informed by the principles and values of feminism, participatory democracy, community development and social justice, the ProChoices Community Clinic was founded in 2015, in response to requests for Narrative Therapy apprenticeship, feminist stewardship, rigorous practice supervision opportunity, and a lack of quality affordable therapy for those without the financial means.

As an alternative to investing in a capitalist model for personal profit, Hilda Nanning founded a community clinic and provided the sponsorship of a full time position for program development, clinic direction, supervision, along with the required financial funding for its first two year operations. ProChoices continues to expand its client wait list and therapist placement at a rapid rate to meet demand.
